...CACOUNA...

As a Summer Resort.

CACOUNA is a leading Canadian watering place situated on the Lower St. Lawrence, one hundred and twenty miles below Quebec, opposite the mouth of the far-famed Saguenay River. It is the seat of an old French parish, preserving the ancient customs of Old France. It is placed on an elevation above the sea and facing the West ; having a beautiful evergreen slope to the salt water beaches. The St. Lawrence here is twenty miles wide with the bold Laurentian Mountains forming the opposite shore which with the remarkable pure air produces most beautiful sunsets and is surrounded with lovely views as far as the eye can reach. The magnificent shade trees and groves ; Lawns, Play grounds and Promenades ; driving on the fine roads, inland or on shore ; Boating, Sailing and Fishing form some of its many attractions.

Cacouna is the favorite resort for Canadian and American families, who have erected here neat and tasty cottages for their summer homes, facsimiles of which are shown on this sheet produced from photo views.

Cacouna, like "Newport," may be styled a "Summer Cottage City."

Its Repertoire and reputation for entertainment only adds to its charms.

Churches of different denominations have been erected here by summer residents for the convenience of visitors, at which eminent clergymen officiate.

...CACOUNA...

As a Health Resort.

CACOUNA is a great natural Sanitarium. Its salubrity, elevation and average summer temperature, as well as salt sea breezes and balmy air, make it specially attractive. Many Southern and Western physicians prescribe a summer residence here to such of their patients as are subject to general debility and lassitude resulting from life in low latitudes. The late Dr. Campbell, of Montreal, in his lifetime Canada's leading physician, testified that after a careful observance of the effect upon his patients of the different watering places, both of the United States and of Canada, he was thoroughly convinced, that for convalescents Cacouna was immeasurably superior to all others. And he gave a practical illustration of his faith in Cacouna by erecting there the summer residence of his own family.

Sea Bathing, one of the principal recreations with a smooth and gentle sloping beach and no under tow with the tide, is made perfectly safe.

The Atmosphere is dry and temperature even, never preventing one from out door pleasures, either from extreme cold or heat. A great point, too, in favor of Cacouna, is the absence of any thing like fresh water marshes or annoying insects. The porosity of the shale rock and gravel soil causes the absorption of rain fall at once.

The Sea Water from this iron bound coast when taken internally is a wonderful remedy for dyspepsia, etc.

Hay Fever must succumb to this climate and many reliable testimonials can be given of immediate relief. The strong air produces sweet sleep and perfect rest.

The St. Lawrence Hall.

THIS elegant and spacious Hotel, open for guests from June to September, has been so extended and improved that it is now one of the most commodious sea-side hotels in the Dominion. It has a frontage of 210 feet with three wings each 150 feet long having spacious lawns between and overlooking the river St. Lawrence; has accommodation for five hundred guests. The bedrooms are large, comfortable and well ventilated, several being en suite, while almost every room in the house commands a magnificent view of the river or surrounding country. It is supplied with billiard room, bowling alley, concert hall and elegant parlors. Its extensive dining room is airy and well lighted. The cuisine is unsurpassed, being under the supervision of a competent chef.

Electric Bells, (Norton system) connect all rooms with the office.
